Science & Conservation: Cal-IPC worked with regional partners across the state to design and implement landscape-level invasive plant management projects. We currently lead or support projects on the North Coast, Sierra Nevada, San Francisco Bay Area, Central Valley, South Coast and Desert regions of California. Projects focus on removing new invasive plant species before they can spread. In addition, we strengthened technical tools for assessing which invasive plants are most likely to become problems in California in the future, and prepared best practices materials for land managers.

Education: Cal-IPC's 2017 Symposium brought 280 land managers, researchers, conservation corps members and volunteer stewards to Palm Springs for four days of presentations, discussion groups, trainings and field trips. We completed an update of our California Invasive Plant Inventory, which provides a key information source for the state's land managers. Our new Wildland Volunteer Network provided trainings for volunteer stewards across the SF Bay Area.

Policy: Cal-IPC worked in Sacramento to lay the groundwork for legislation to strengthen state invasive plant programs and to codify California's interagency Invasive Species Council and 24-member Invasive Species Advisory Committee. On the national level, Cal-IPC led a coalition working to develop standards for assessing and listing invasive plants. As a member of the North American Invasive Species Network we helped coordinate an international summit for 2017.
